

Consent to Publish Agreement

Romance, Revolution & Reform (RRR)

This agreement has been made on [DD/MM/YYYY] between [FULL NAME] (hereinafter "the Author"), [EMAIL ADDRESS] and Romance, Revolution and Reform (RRR), Faculty of Humanities, University of Southampton, Southampton, SO17 1BJ, UK, rrr@soton.ac.uk (hereinafter "the Journal").

The Journal is pleased to publish your article, review, or other contribution (hereinafter "contribution"), entitled [NAME OF ARTICLE].

The author and the Journal hereby agree to the following:

1. The Journal holds the exclusive right to publish the contribution that has been submitted to the Journal, subject to satisfactory revisions recommended by the Board and carried out by the author, until such times as the contribution has been published on the Journal's website. The author of any article published in RRR holds the copyright to that article. Following publication in RRR, the contribution may be reproduced in line with the CC-BY-NC 4.0 licence, as outlined in point 2 of this agreement.
2. The Journal grants the Author, free of charge, the right to republish the contribution in any language, in any edited volume, or any book that the author writes, or contributes to, subject to the following conditions:
  - a. When republishing the contribution, the author will acknowledge that the material was first published in the Journal.
  - b. Prior to publication, the Author may post a copy of accepted manuscript on personal websites and institutional repositories. The accepted manuscript is the version of the article that is sent to a Journal editor after review and revision, but before copy editing. The accepted manuscript version should acknowledge that the paper will be published in the Journal.

3. Single Authorship. The Author guarantees that he/she is the sole creator or author, of the contribution, and has the full power to make this agreement, and that the contribution does not infringe copyright or other proprietary rights of any other person, that it does not contain any libellous, or unlawful material, and does not invade the privacy of any other person.
  - a. Joint Authorship. If more than one person is the author or contributor to the articles, they must each sign an individual copy of this agreement, that guarantees that they are the only creators or authors, of the contribution, and have the full power to make this agreement, and that the contribution does not infringe copyright or other proprietary rights of any other person, that it does not contain any libellous, or unlawful material, and does not invade the privacy of any other person.
4. The Author(s) guarantee that the contribution is original and has not previously been published.
5. The Author accepts that the Journal will not publish the contribution, regardless of signing this agreement, if the contribution is found to be plagiarised, in breach of copyright, or has previously been published in any other medium. The submission will be subject to a thorough plagiarism check. All submissions will also be subject to a quality check and will need to be signed off by two members of the editorial board prior to going forward to publication.
6. The Author accepts that the Journal will not accept any financial liability, including, but not limited to, the paying of legal fees, should it be found that the contribution, or the material that it contains, is in any way unlawful.
7. The Journal will undertake to facilitate discussion between the complainant and the Author, in the event of a complaint being made about the contribution that relates to offence, or breach of copyright. This commitment is subject to the following conditions:

- a. It is accepted that the Journal will not charge, nor expect to be charged, for its role in liaising between the complainant and the Author.
  - b. The Journal will not engage in any discussion of financial compensation, but will only seek to achieve an amicable, non-financial, resolution to the complaint in order to allow the contribution to remain in the public domain, in a revised form that addresses the concerns of the complainant. For further details, please refer to the Take Down Policy on the Journal's website.
  - c. The Journal cannot be held responsible if its assistance is unable to resolve the complaint.
8. The Author consents that the Journal will publish their name, email address, and short biography in the edition of the Journal which the contribution appears, all of which the Author will supply prior to publication.
9. The Journal agrees that it will not seek to gain any profit from the Author's contribution, through its sale, by licencing its publication by another organisation, or by any other method.
10. Illustrations may be included only at the discretion of the editors. If illustrations, or any other copyrighted materials, are reproduced in a contribution, the Author will bear all responsibility for:
- a. Preparing the material according to the Journal's specifications, and providing it in an electronic format which corresponds to those specifications. Please see the Journal's Guidelines for Submission for further details.
  - b. Obtaining any necessary permissions in writing, and transmitting those permissions to the Journal prior to publication.

- c. Covering all costs and fees associated with any copyrighted materials and the permissions required.

11. The Journal will publish the contribution, free of charge, and without any restrictions to public access, on the Journal's website, and will supply the Author with a pdf copy of the edition of the Journal in which the contribution appears. A further pdf extract of the Journal, which only contains the contribution, will also be supplied to the author, who is free to use this within the parameters outlined in this agreement.

12. The Author acknowledges that they may be expected to make alterations to the first draft submitted to the Journal during the Call for Submissions, and to subsequent drafts, in order to meet the standards required for publication in the Journal. The author further acknowledges that they will be required to read, check and correct proofs of the work prior to publication. The Author accepts that the Journal will not publish the contribution, regardless of signing this agreement, if they fail to make the alterations and edits required to meet the necessary standards for publication in the Journal.

13. In exceptional circumstances the journal reserves the right to withdraw from this agreement. These circumstances include, but are not limited to, the liquidation of the journal, the journal being unable, despite extensive effort, to source double-blind reviews of the requisite quality, or in the event that peer-reviewers or copy editors find that the contribution is not of the necessary quality to be published in the journal.

14. The Author agrees that they will provide the final draft of their article in good time prior to publication, and in accordance with the Journal's timetable outlined in its Submission Handling Policy, which is available on the Journal's website. The Author further agrees that this final draft will conform in its entirety to the Journal's Guidelines for Submission, which are available on the Journal's website.

The Author accepts that the Journal will not publish the contribution, regardless of signing this agreement, if they fail to adhere to the requirements of this clause.

15. The Journal agrees to ensure that, upon publication, the author will be sent a digital version of the full edition of the Journal in which their article appears, a pdf document containing their article, and a link to the web page where their article appears.
16. The author agrees to the Journal depositing a copy of their article or review with the British Library. For book reviews, the author also permits the Journal to send a copy of their review to the company which published the book.
17. The Author confirms that they have read and understood the Journal's Privacy Policy available on the Journal's website.
18. Should any of these clauses be broken, then both the author and the Journal reserve the right to terminate this agreement, and neither side will be liable for any financial loss that has been incurred by either party.

Please sign and date this agreement, and return it, in its entirety by email to rrr@soton.ac.uk.

This agreement is void if altered in any way from the original template, which is stored on the Journal's website in pdf format.

---

Author's Signature

[INSERT AUTHOR'S NAME]

---

Date

R.R.R.

Romance, Revolution & Reform

---

[NAME OF EDITOR-IN-CHIEF]

Editor-in-Chief of Romance, Revolution and Reform